No. 14.—The following extract from the Supplement to the London Gazette, dated 27th October 1914, is published:—

BY THE ORDER OF HER MAJESTY THE KING, THE 27th DAY OF OCTOBER, 1914.

Present:

The King's Most Excellent Majesty in Council.

Whereas by an Order in Council dated the 16th day of August, 1914, His Majesty was pleased to declare that during the present hostilities the Commission known as the Declaration of London should, subject to certain additions and modifications therein specified, be adopted and put in force by His Majesty's Government; and

Whereas the said additions and modifications were rendered necessary by the special conditions of the present war; and

Whereas it is desirable and possible now to re-enact the said Order in Council with amendments in order to minimize, so far as possible, the interference with innocent neutral trade suggested by the war;

Now, therefore, His Majesty, by and with the advice of His Privy Council, is pleased to order, and it is hereby enacted, as follows:—

1. During the present hostilities the provisions of the Commission known as the Declaration of London shall, subject to the alterations of the lists of contraband and non-contraband, and to the modifications hereinafter set out, be adopted and put in force by His Majesty's Government.

The modifications are as follows:—

(1) A neutral vessel, with papers indicating a neutral destination, which, notwithstanding the declaration of war or the papers, proceeds to an enemy port, shall be liable to capture and condemnation if she is encountered before the end of her next voyage.

(c) The destination referred to in Article 22 of the said Declaration shall (in addition to the prescriptions laid down in Article 24) be presumed to exist if the goods are consigned to or for an agent at the enemy State.

(d) Notwithstanding the provisions of Article 25 of the said Declaration, additional circumstances shall be taken to capture on board a vessel bound for a neutral port if the goods are consigned "to order," or if the ship's papers do not show who is the consignee of the goods as if they show a consignee of the goods in territory belonging to or controlled by the enemy.

(e) In the cases covered by the preceding paragraph (d) it shall lie upon the owner of the goods to prove that their destination was innocent.

3. Where it is shown to the satisfaction of one of His Majesty's Principal Secretaries of State that the enemy Government is deriving supplies for its armed forces from or through a neutral country, he may direct that in respect of ships bound for a port in that country, Article 26 of the said Declaration shall not apply. Such direction shall be notified in the "London Gazette," and shall operate until the same is withdrawn. So long as such direction is in force, a vessel which is carrying additional arms-bound to a port in that country shall not be liable from capture.

4. The Order in Council of the 20th August, 1914, directing the adoption and enforcement during the present hostilities of the Convention known as the Declaration of London, subject to the additions and modifications therein specified, is hereby repealed.

5. This Order may be cited as "The Declaration of London Order in Council, No. 2, 1914." NOTICE

All persons having any interest in cargoes other than enemy cargoes laden on enemy ships captured at sea, and requiring a release of such cargoes or portion of cargoes, should make inquiries at the office of the Government Solicitor in the High Court Buildings.

The Government Solicitor will require proof of ownership and particulars as to freight, whether paid or unpaid.

In cases where the title of British subjects or of persons domiciled in allied or neutral States, or of friendly States if enrolled in this country, who are interested in such success, is clear and established without doubt to the satisfaction of the Government Police, such success or portions of success will be allowed with as little delay as possible, provided that no questions of constrained assets, and subject to the adjustment of any matter, relating to freight or other charges falling on the cargo. In more doubtful cases recourse to the ordinary Prize Court procedure will be necessary.

Due notice will be given of the indication of proceedings in cases in which vessels are in the custody of the Prize Court.

Bill No. 11 of 1914.—The Hindu Post-Puberty Marriage Bill, with Statement of Objects and Reasons 101

Bill to be introduced into the Council of the Governor of Fort St. George for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations.

Under rule 22 of the rules for the conduct of business at meetings of the Council, the following Bill, together with the Statement of Objects and Reasons, is published for general information :—

No. 12 of 1914.

A Bill to declare the Validity of Marriages of Hindu Women after Puberty.

WHEREAS it is expedient to remove doubts as to the validity of marriages of Hindu women after puberty and to declare such marriages valid; It is hereby enacted as follows :—

1. This Act may be called the Hindu Post-Puberty Marriage Act, 1914.
2. It shall apply to all persons governed by the Hindu Law who are domiciled within the Presidency of Madras.
3. Notwithstanding any custom or any text or rule of Hindu Law to the contrary, no marriage of a woman governed by the Hindu Law, whether performed before or after the commencement of this Act, shall be deemed invalid merely on the ground that, at the time of the marriage, she had attained puberty.

STATEMENT OF OBJECTIONS AND REASONS.

Among Brahmins in South India except the Nambudris and among certain sections of non-Brahmins Hinduas the present custom is to marry girls before puberty. The general belief among them is that the Brahmans forbid the marriage of a girl after puberty. It is less true South than the case of Parsis, Yezas and Shannaris. Disapproval of such a marriage and even denunciation the bridegroom and the bride as well as the guardians of the latter. But they do not go so far as to declare that the marriage of a girl who has attained puberty is invalid in law or that the children born of such a marriage are illegitimate. On the other hand, many divisions of at least equal sanctity like those of Nairs, Chakkams, Tajaras, Nambudris and Vaidikias, while enjoining on parents and guardians the duty of giving away girls in marriage before puberty, allow them a further period of three years within which to do so and provide that after the three years they may themselves seek suitable bridegrooms. The well-known Sharia of Muslims only lays down that the parents of a girl should lose as time after puberty is nearing. The authors of the Sharia Shariat, which are of equal authority with the Sharia and which are of higher value as evidence of early custom, were to contemplate only post-puberty marriage, for, with trifling exceptions, they permit cohabitation or physical union between the parties on the fourth night as a part of the Faris or marriage sacrament. For three and other reasons it is believed by many Hindus that post-puberty marriage, so far from being forbidden by the Brahmans, has their strong sanction and its fact was at one time the prevalent custom. Some of these Hindus would like to marry their girls after puberty, as it might enable them to receive education somewhat longer and also materially strengthen the fibre of early widowed. They hope besides that, if this reform be finally established, the condition of women in general may become better and the quality of the race improve in due time. But the state of the law on the subject is a difficulty in the way of the reform. Some lawyers think that a post-puberty marriage is valid according to Hindu Law. Among these may be mentioned the late Mr. V. Krishna Rao Ayyar, who wrote in 1906: "It is certain that as a matter of law one now declares invalid any marriage which takes place after the puberty of the bride is the highest Hindu rule." The contrary opinion was held by Sir V. Madhav Rao Ayyar, who observed in Panditacharya v. Ranganathaiah, XIV Madras: "It must be remembered that the Shariat is prescribed for a widow or a child, for, according to Hindu Law and custom, a Brahman girl must be married before she attains her majority and, therefore, at a time when she is not in a position to choose a suitable husband for herself." In this conflict of opinions as well as of facts there is reason to fear that, if a post-puberty marriage be challenged in a court of law, it may be declared invalid and any children born of it rendered illegitimate. In a recent pamphlet entitled "The Position of Hindu Social Reform Associations" Sir C. Sankara Narayan has said under the heading of Post-Puberty Marriage: "We therefore seek a reform on these rational lines and, as we are doubtful whether a marriage after puberty will be recognised by courts of law as a valid marriage, we urge a measure of persuasive legislation to declare that, even if marriages take place after puberty among those classes who have been following the contrary practice, such marriages will not be invalid, but will be treated as legal and valid in courts of law." It is therefore expedient to declare by an enactment of the legislature that no marriage between Hindus shall be deemed invalid by reason merely of the fact that the bride had, at the time of the marriage, attained puberty. The Bill does this and no more. It is purely permissive and, even in the liberty that it allows, it does not depart from the basic principle of the Hindu marriage sacrament. And of course it does not interfere with the present custom or in any way restrict the freedom of those that desire to conform to it.
